

Articulation Agreement Between

Colleges of Business, Health Professions, and Occupational Professions

School
Celina Ohio
City State

The University of Northwestern Ohio believes that many high schools and career centers offer course work which may equal entry level college courses in scope, sequence and academic rigor. We further feel that students having successfully completed these college level programs or courses should be given the opportunity to articulate college credit.

A partnership agreement between the University of Northwestern Ohio and the high schools and/or career centers is appropriate to recognize and reward those graduates who have acquired the skills for articulated credit in specific introductory classes. The University of Northwestern Ohio will grant articulated credit to graduates who fulfill course requirements agreed to in this document.

The secondary school will determine which of their programs/courses or course combinations meet the articulation requirements and learning outcomes of the UNOH courses catalogued in this agreement. The secondary school will list their equivalent program/course or course combination, along with the matching curriculum hours of instruction, on the Course Equivalency Sheet contained in this agreement, indicating the UNOH course to be articulated.

Secondary schools wishing to articulate UNOH courses not currently included in this agreement must contact the Educational Relations Representative listed below to initiate a curricular and assessment evaluation.

During the agreement's three year lifetime, the University reserves the right to implement changes to the courses, articulation requirements, and learning outcomes contained in or associated with this agreement.

The advantages to the graduate are many. Articulated credit will cost nothing, and in most cases will reduce the total tuition for college programs and the time necessary for completion of the program.

The decision to grant a student articulated credit will be determined by the following University of Northwestern Ohio's authorized personnel: Vice President for Academic Affairs and the Registrar.

To take advantage of this agreement, the student should:

- Contact the Admissions Office at the University of Northwestern Ohio for a formal application to the University.
- Pick up the current school year Articulation Application form from the Registrar or your high school counselor. (You can call the University to have the form to be mailed to you.)
- The high school counselor/principal and instructor must approve and specify the courses for articulation.
- The course instructor and student must sign the application to articulate credit to verify they have read, and the course and student meet the articulation requirements and learning outcomes for each course for which credit is sought.
- After review of the materials by the University's personnel, the student will be notified if advanced credit has been awarded.

For students whose secondary education curricula do not meet the requirements for articulated credit for any of the courses above, those students may opt to take proficiency exams where they are available. Contact Shawna Roob in Education Relations about proficiency exams.

We, the undersigned representatives of the cooperating university and high school/career center, agree that a student completing college equivalent course work in a rigorous, academically challenging high school program may be eligible for advanced placement credit. Guidelines for acceptance of that credit are covered in this document.
